LAVAL RETURNS TO POWER

FDR WORKS ON CONTROL OVER U. S. ECONOMY

Plan to Halt Inflation Has Features Similar to Canadian Program.

SAVINGS ARE SOUGHT

Excess Purchasing Power of 15 Billions Reported Major Problem.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt is working today on a program designed to stop inflation by the most complete control of American economic life ever proposed.

High government officials said the plan, in its broad principles, is similar to that in effect in Canada since the last summer and would give the government power to control prices, rents, wages and savings. It would freeze wages, general prices and rents, in defense areas, as of a date yet to be determined.

The major problem yet to be solved is the control of excess purchasing power. Present plans are to divert it into savings—either compulsory or voluntary purchase of government bonds. There are influential government officials favoring each method. The decision is up to Mr. Roosevelt.

High government officials said the program, now taking form after weeks of study, would be announced within two weeks.

Mr. Roosevelt was said to have decided upon the general lines of the program.

One of the major problems yet to be solved is how to control approximately $15,000,000,000 of excess purchasing power—money for which no consumer goods would be available under the wartime program.

Economists have reported to Mr. Roosevelt that income from wages, farm products, interest and dividends has increased $38,000,000,000 since the depression era. Increased prices and taxes have taken $23,000,000,000 of that.

If prices and wages are frozen at present levels, and consumer luxuries are restricted, there would be no place to spend the $15,000,000,000 except through "black markets" that would create a form of inflation.

That's were the voluntary or compulsory savings program comes in.

Some form of voluntary savings may be tried at first. It might in-

HITS CHANGE

Knox Sees Delay by Dropping of 40-Hour Week.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Secretary of Navy Frank Knox declared today that abolition of the basic 40-hour work week would result in "confusion and delay" in the war program.

Knox told House Naval Affairs committee that the labor situation could be improved, but said the problem was one of psychology. He cited the "amazing" increase in production after Dec. 7 to substantiate that statement.

Knox also told the committee he preferred to recapture excessive industrial profits by a heavy excess profits tax rather than by limiting projects on war contracts to a specific percentage.

LOSS $300,000

Fire Hits City; Ohioan Knocked Into River by Blast.

JANESVILLE, Wis.—(AP)—Fire swept through half a block of downtown Janesville last night, with a loss estimated unofficially at $300,000.

A spectator, C. H. Ross, 57, Springfield, O., was knocked into the Rock river by the force of one of several explosions which accompanied the conflagration. He was rescued by firemen and apparently suffered no ill effects.

A Mansfield traffic patrolman escaped serious injury early this morning when an automobile driven by a Mansfield resident crashed into the rear of his motorcycle at the intersection of Park avenue west and Marion avenue.

Police reported that Patrolman Arthur Conrady, 71 Hedges street had been struck at 1:01 a. m. while on duty by an automobile driven by James W. Stonebraker, 23, of 637 Park avenue west.

It was feared at first that Conrady had suffered a fractured cervical vertebra but hospital authorities reported that a second set of X-rays revealed that, although Conrady had suffered a vertebra injury, it was not a fracture. The patrolman also received severe lacerations and contusions about the forehead and left thigh.

Conrady told fellow-patrolmen he had been waiting for the traffic

2,000 Ministers, Teachers Jailed In Norway Revolt

LONDON —(AP)— A Norwegian government-in-exile spokesman estimated today the German-controlled quisling regime had imprisoned 2,000 teachers and Lutheran ministers in the occupied kingdom in the last six weeks.

This, he said, was done in an effort to crush opposition to establishment of a Nazi youth organization and a "teachers' front" in Norway.

The spokesman said 7,000 Norwegians, including most of the country's labor leaders, now were in concentration or forced labor camps.

Quisling's attack on Norway's state-supported Lutheran church, has resulted in the imprisonment of the bishop of Oslo and several other church leaders.

The churchmen and educators united in protesting against the decrees, and Quisling installed himself as head of the church after 1,100 ministers resigned Easter Sunday in the first mass defiance by the church of any occupied country.

(By Associated Press)

Greatly outnumbered American and Filipino troops were officially reported putting up stubborn resistance to Japanese invasion forces today on Cebu island, in the central Philippines, while Lieut. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright's defenders of Corregidor underwent four more assaults by Japanese bombers.

The Japanese force on Cebu, 250 miles south of Manila, was estimated at 12,000.

In the battle for the approaches to India, British headquarters reported that RAF planes had destroyed or damaged 13 Japanese flying boats in a smashing attack on Japan's new bases in the Andaman islands, in the Bay of Bengal.

A war department bulletin said that communication between Cebu and Corregidor had been re-established and that heavy fighting was in progress, with "our troops stubbornly resisting the advance of the enemy."

On Corregidor, the last major American-Filipino bastion in the battle of Luzon, the war department said heavy Japanese bombers inflicted some troop casualties but only slight damage to military installations.

IRAN ACTS

Breaks Relations With Japs, Orders Envoys to Leave.

TEHERAN —(INS)— Finding its legation in Teheran a nest of Axis activity and propaganda, the government of Iran today decided to sever diplomatic relations with Japan and ordered its diplomatic representatives to leave this country within a week.

The government's decision followed its discovery that the Japanese legation was a center of anti-United Nations propaganda and was acting as the paymaster for Axis agents. Iran, it is understood, took action on its own initiative.

Iran, apparently fated to be the battleground in the Axis drive eastward, now is in control of British and Russian forces, who effected a peaceful occupation some time ago.

Iran's decision to break with Japan shows that the government now is firmly on the United Nation's side.

'First Nighters' At Doll House Exhibit

Mansfield had a glimpse of fairyland last night when Colleen Moore's fabulous half-a-million dollar Doll House with its priceless possessions opened a 10-day exhibition here with all the fanfare that usually attends a "first night." Miss Moore herself made a personal appearance to autograph programs. Presented under the auspices of Earl McVey post of the American Legion the exhibition in the R. B. Gardner show rooms at 116 Park avenue west will continue through Wednesday, April 22, daily from 12 noon until 11 p. m. Miss Moore is shown at the upper left autographing the program of Private Jules Frankel, Park avenue west road, home on furlough from Fort Oglethorp, Ga. The courtyard of the Doll House with its towering miniature turrets and battlements is pictured at the right. A section of the first night audience is shown at the lower left while Miss Moore is pictured showing one of the rare furnishings at the lower right.

Crowd Sees Wonders of Fairyland In Doll House

Colleen Moore's Toy Castle Opens Engagement With 'First Nighter' Fanfare; Charity Benefits.

Colleen Moore's priceless toy castle took a Mansfield audience back to fairyland last night, a fairyland that both men and women, young and old, were loathe to leave until all its wonders had been viewed again and again.

First night patrons, more than 400 of them, waited in line to see the exquisite Doll House that opened a 10-day exhibition in the R. B. Gardner show rooms, 116 Park avenue west, and to see Miss Moore, the former stage and screen actress, who came to Mansfield to make one of her rare personal appearances with the exhibition.

Many of the patrons at the sponsors' night party took occasion to have souvenir programs autographed and to chat with the charming Miss Moore about some of the pictures in which they had enjoyed her most. Others recalled seeing the star when she made a stage appearance here in a play, "On the Loose," back in 1929.

But it was the Doll House that held the spotlight, the fairy castle with rose quartz floors inlaid with gold, diamond chandeliers with electric bulbs no larger than a grain of wheat, a golden organ with 100 tiny keys that played by remote control and the tiniest bird imaginable that trilled in the courtyard.

Every fairy tale that ever enchanted childhood was suggested in the rare furnishings that Miss Moore had assembled from all parts

SEES COMMANDO

Marshall Confers With Head of 'Invasion Forces.'

LONDON —(AP)— General George C. Marshall, U. S. army chief of staff, conferred several times yesterday with Lord Louis Mountbatten, chief of Britain's hard-hitting commandos, and arranged for further conferences today.

Observers noted that Mountbatten, whose appointment as chief of the commandos was disclosed yesterday, is one of Britain's best-known experts on invasion tactics.

When United States troops landed in Northern Ireland, the wish was heard in many quarters that they join the invasion-trained commandos and participate in raids on the European continent. There even was speculation that they might be trained as shock landing troops.

Official silence has been maintained, however, on the American objectives.

COUNTY GIVEN 185 MORE TIRES

Gets Extra Supply of Recaps For Passenger Cars After Bailey Makes Protest.

A trip to Columbus by James Bailey, Richland county rationing coordinator and chairman of the Mansfield rationing board, paid dividends today for the county's motorists when word came that 185 passenger car recaps have been added to the Richland county April quota.

The county also has been allotted an additional 92 tubes for passenger cars, Bailey was advised.

The number of recaps is significant when compared with the number provided in the original April allocation. After announcement at Washington that large numbers of recaps would be made available to workers in plants busy with war orders, Mansfield rationing officials anticipated that a generous amount would be made available locally.

The public got the same idea, and the local board, made up of Bailey, Emerson S. Weller, and Harold D. Burns, was swamped with applications for authorizations to purchase the large number of recaps it was expected would be received.

However, when April allocations were announced, it developed that Richland county received only 33 passenger car recaps for April. Bailey and the county advisory committee on rationing allocated 16 of these to Mansfield.

Convinced that this distribution

Draft Boards Busy With New Registration, Questionnaires

Approach of the fourth registration of manpower since passage of the present Selective Service act found Richland county's three draft boards today in the position of being among the busiest places in town.

The boards at present are hard at work on these jobs:

1—Assembling large groups of draftees to answer a call for delivery of men to army induction centers late in April. (The three local boards yesterday received supplemental orders for a small additional group to be sent a week later than the large groups called for originally.)

2—Preparing to distribute two sets of questionnaires to the 5,022 men in the 20-21 and 35-44 age groups who registered Feb. 16. Four-page occupational questionnaires were received by the boards yesterday; these will be mailed shortly, then will be followed with dependency questionnaires, and classification of these men will start when both questionnaires are filled out.

3—Arranging for the April 25-27 registration of men between 45 and 65 years of age. It is planned to use the same 20 registration points throughout the county as were used in previous registrations, and to have them staffed with the same persons.

In addition, the three board offices—located in the Farmers Bank building, Richland Trust building, and the Richland county courthouse—are kept busy daily by a steady stream of registrants, seeking information about the time they're due to leave, about the Officers Candidate school for 3-A registrants, and on countless other angles involved in the matter of prospective army service.

Cabinet Shift Places France Close to Nazis

U. S. Expected To Re-Examine Relations With Vichy As Petain Names Leading Collaborationist Vice-Premier; Status Of Fleet Watched.

BULLETIN

BERN, Switzerland—(AP)—Reliable foreign diplomatic sources said today that Pierre Laval would assume Thursday a newly-created post in Vichy to be known as "chief of the government."

(By United Press)

VICHY, France—Pierre Laval, outstanding advocate of collaboration with Germany, was returned to power as vice premier today after 16 months of political eclipse and will go to German-controlled Paris this afternoon.

Laval, succeeding Admiral Jean Francois Darlan as vice premier, assumed control of the national police which he had long sought.

Darlan was stripped of ministerial rank but remained chief of the defense forces and official heir to Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, the 85-year-old chief of state. He thus remains in control of the French fleet.

Pierre Pucheu lost his post as interior minister.

The change came, after terrific German pressure on Vichy for full co-operation, in a dramatic overnight reorganization which was announced at noon.

Petain, Laval and Darlan made the announcement in a joint communique:

"Since his last talk with Marshal Petain M. Laval has conferred often with Adm. Darlan.

"Today Marshal Petain, Adm. Darlan and M. Laval met and decided to proceed with the formation of a new government established on a new basis.

"Marshal Petain, Adm. Darlan and M. Laval will meet again."

It was said officially that the full make-up of the new cabinet would not be announced until Thursday, when Laval returns from Paris.

As the cabinet change was reported, the official journal published a decree suspending the riom "war guilt" trial, which Adolf Hitler had bitterly denounced because the former French leaders involved were accused of losing the war, not of starting it, the latter being the Nazi accusation. The decree said suspension was ordered so the court "could complete its information."

It was reported that formal announcement of the cabinet change would be made later today.

By the reported shift, Laval apparently returns to an even fuller measure of the power he enjoyed for five months as virtual co-dictator with Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, until Petain suddenly and-

FAILURE: Petain, Allies Lose In Effort To Block Axis Move

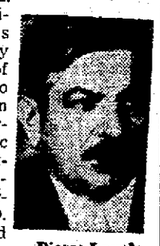
(EDITOR'S NOTE: Roy P. Porter, Associated Press foreign correspondent who was in France before, during and after the German conquest and occupation, writes of the probable consequences of today's drastic changes in Vichy.)

By ROY P. PORTER

NEW YORK—(AP)—Old Marshal Petain has been forced to give in to German pressure, Pierre Laval has come back after a 16-month vacation as contact man No. 1 with the Nazis and the United Nations' diplomatic and food offensive, conducted by the United States, has failed.

These are the immediate results of today's developments in Vichy where the first steps toward government reorganization have been taken.

All these results are dangerous to the United States—and the United Nations—in their war against the Axis.



Pierre Laval

Petain's capitulation means that the only living marshal of France had to turn his back on his closest foreign diplomatic adviser — United States Ambassador Admiral William D. Leahy — and agree to heightened collaboration with his country's German military conquerors.

Laval's return to the cabinet—means France's first and foremost proponent of "friendship" with Germany and Italy is again sitting in the driver's seat. It also means that our British allies, for whom Laval has a deep, uncontrolled, genuine hate can henceforth consider all of France, occupied and unoccupied, as outside their sphere of influence.

The failure of the diplomatic and food mission, directed by Washington and conducted by Admiral Leahy in Vichy, means that the overtures, relief assistance, suggestions and outright gifts by which the United States sought to keep the French government out of the Axis camp

RAIDS: Allied Bombers Blast Jap Bases And Big Enemy Ship

(By United Press)

GEN. M'ARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia—Allied bomber squadrons attacked Japanese bases again today after a series of raids in which a direct hit was made on an enemy ship at Rabaul.

United States flying fortresses bombed the ship at Rabaul in what officials described as an attack that would do much to compensate for the most recent British naval loss in the Indian ocean. A direct hit and two damaging near misses were scored.

(This indicated that the ship was a Japanese aircraft carrier since the British lost the aircraft carrier Hermes in the Indian ocean recently.)

New raids were made on the Japanese base at Lae on northern New Guinea coast today after damaging attacks yesterday on Lae and Koepang.

"One enemy fighter was shot down and two others probably were destroyed and a fourth damaged during yesterday's operations at Lae and Koepang," the communique said.

The attacks on Lae and Koepang followed the Rabaul raid on Sunday when Australian fighters protected the American flying fortresses.

The Allied planes fought Japanese navy zero fighters and terrific anti-aircraft fire from shore

LAVAL RECEIVES HIGH POST IN FRENCH CABINET

Re-examination of Relations Between U. S., France Seen Following Change.

dramatically dismissed him from the cabinet Dec. 13, 1940.

Not only, according to the reports, would Laval regain control of foreign policy but as interior minister he would get his long-sought control of the national police.

(There was every indication that the cabinet reorganization marked a crisis in French policy of importance to the entire Allied world.

The question immediately arose whether France would sever relations with the United States and turn over its formidable navy to Germany.)

U. S. Expected To Re-examine Relations

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(UP)— The United States government today is understood to be considering the suspension of all American economic assistance to France as a result of Marshal Henri Petain's reported decision to reinstate former Vice Premier Laval with virtually dictatorial powers.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Well informed sources predicted today that the reported shake-up in the Vichy French cabinet would lead to a complete re-examination of recently improved relations between the United States and France.

It has long been emphasized here that Franco-American relations are on a day-to-day basis.

These sources said that as soon as formal announcement has been made of Pierre Laval's return to power as vice premier of France, Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles probably would ask French Ambassador Gaston Henry-Haye for a full explanation of the sudden changes.

Welles also would be expected to demand additional guarantees that the recent accord reached by him and Henry-Haye would not be jeopardized by the new cabinet. That accord was understood in some quarters to have been reached only after French assurances that nothing would come of Axis agitation for Laval's return.

The accord recently reached by Welles and Henry-Haye included French pledges not to exceed the terms of German armistice in aiding the Axis. In return the United States would resume shipment of needed commodities to French Africa.

Diplomats here dared not speculate on the effect Laval's appointment to high office might have on French relations with this country. Most of them believed that it meant closer French collaboration with the Axis and represented the beginning of a serious crisis in French policy.

The greatest concern here for months has been the eventful disposition of the French fleet.

The reports from Vichy came only a few hours after acting secretary of state Sumner Welles had denounced Laval and his collaborationist followers for their contemptible disregard "for the high tradition of liberty and freedom which has made France great."

Reds Smash Toward Vital Railway

MOSCOW —(INS)— Advancing Russian units were reported today to have smashed their way to within a short distance of the vital Kursk-Kharkov-Dniepropetrovsk railway in the southern Ukraine as important gains, particularly around Leningrad, were made in other areas.

Disruption of the railway connecting these Russian industrial cities would prove a severe blow to Nazi supply lines on the southern front, possibly frustrating any Nazi plans for a drive through that area toward the oil rich Caucasus.

The regular communique today carried the usual words, "no material changes on the front during the night," but an additional report said that the Soviet forces in one sector of the Kalinin front had recaptured an occupied locality and that more than 900 Germans had been killed in the streets.

An earlier communique had announced advances on several sectors and reoccupation of several inhabited localities

Soviets Attack on Central Front

LONDON — (AP) — Exchange Telegraph said today the German radio had announced that six Soviet divisions, including a Siberian division and an entire division of tanks, had launched an attack of extreme violence on the central Russian front and that the battle still was in progress.

The German broadcast was said to have acknowledged that the Russians dislocated Nazi lines at some points but to have claimed that the attack was stemmed and the attackers partly annihilated.

It is said other Russian attacks also were made against Rumanian and Italian positions in the Donets basin to the south.

Nazi Planes Raid Coast of Britain

LONDON — (UP) — A small force of German planes, replying to Britain's heavy pounding of Axis territory, raided eastern and northeastern English coastal districts during the night, damaging some civilian property and inflicting a few casualties, the air minister said today

A communique said one raider flew inland a short distance toward the northwest, but the attacks centered in three coastal areas. It was the first inland German aerial attack since last November.

A few hours before the Nazi raiders crossed the channel, British fighter planes had continued their offensive over German occupied territory.

Laser failed to raise bond, was taken to the county jail by Shelby police.

batteries and various ships in harbor, especially from the target itself.

One bomb made a direct hit on the ship near the stern. A second fell so close that a great column of water was thrown over the ship. A third apparently went so close it blew off a section of the ship's side, for debris was mixed with the water which was thrown up.

It was increasingly apparent that the Allied air forces were pressing to the fullest their offensive against Japanese bases all over the invasion zone.

American and Australian planes made two punishing attacks yesterday on Koepang, Netherlands Timor, and Lae, New Guinea, two of the three great invasion bases. The third is Rabaul.

In the Koepang raid it was indicated that one ship was set afire and a second was damaged by the blast of a near miss.

At Lae, American bombers protected by Australian fighters damaged three grounded Japanese bombers.

Navy Tells of Heroic Sub Cruise

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The cruise of the submarine Seawolf, whose crew ignored Japanese guns and depth charges to sail into the enemy's midst and torpedo seven ships, was added today to the heroic exploits of navy men.

The Navy made the story of that cruise public for the first time and described every man aboard the undersea craft as a hero. Its skipper, Lieut. Commander Frederick Burdett Warder, of Grafton, W. Va., received the navy cross for his part.

The recommendation for Warder's decoration said simply that it was "for heroism and especially meritorious conduct in combat with the enemy."

It left untold the hardships of a cruise of many weeks—apparently far in excess of the five or six weeks usually considered to be the limit of human endurance in submarines—in tropical waters carried out under the ever present threat of death.

Official reports of the Seawolf's cruise—which lasted through late February, March and early April—show that the submarine in a single trip sank a light cruiser, a destroyer and a large transport, and damaged two more light cruisers—one of which was believed sunk—a large transport and an unidentified vessel.

He was armed with the results of a survey he made last week among Mansfield industrial plants. This survey showed, Bailey said, that of the 10,500 workers in Mansfield's plants, approximately 3,000 reside more than two miles from the city.

"Of course, folks could walk to work if they lived only two miles away," Bailey said. "But a great many of them live much farther than that The survey showed that 172 persons come in every day from Bellville and surrounding area, 149 from Lexington and nearby, 92 from the Lucas vicinity, 88 from the Ashland section, and more than 50 each from the Shelby, Butler, and Shiloh areas."

"Our guns returned the fire."

The war department also reported sharp skirmishes on Mindanao island, 600 miles south of Manila.

Imperial Tokyo headquarters asserted today that Japan's invasion armies had captured 40,000 prisoners, including 15 generals, since the beginning of the Bataan offensive in the Philippines, while on the Burma front British headquarters acknowledged a dangerous new Japanese thrust toward the central Burma oil fields.

A British communique said Japanese troops driving up the Irrawaddy river had captured the village of Migyaungye which is only 22 miles south of the Minbu oil fields.

The British also reported increasing Japanese pressure below Taungdwingyi, 90 miles northeast of Prome, about midway between the British-defended right flank and the Chinese-guarded left flank of the main Allied defense line.

Other developments in the far Pacific theater:

IRAN—With India imminently threatened by Japanese invasion, Iran (Persia) broke off relations with Japan.

Lying midway between India and the North African battle zone, Iran would be a likely route for an attempted junction of Japanese and German armies.

AUSTRALIA — United States and Australian fliers blasted anew at Japanese invasion bases at Lae, New Guinea, and Koepang. Dutch Timor, attacking ships and airdromes. Four Japanese planes were shot down or damaged.

PHILIPPINES—The Japanese said 6,700 of 40,000 prisoners they captured on Bataan peninsula were United States soldiers, as distinguished from native Filipino troops, and declared that booty included 196 guns, 320 machineguns, 500 automatic rifles, 10,000 rifles, 124 tanks and armored cars, and 220 other cars.

Dispatches from Lieut.-Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright's headquarters on Corregidor island, in Manila bay, indicated that a Japanese attempt to storm the rocky citadel by night was near.

In the last 24 hours, Corregidor's guns were officially credited with sinking a Japanese ship off the Bataan coast and smashing Japanese small invasion-type boats massed at the fishing village of Mariveles.

Military observers said the Japanese would probably strike on the first night that rain blacks out the waters between Corregidor and the mainland. The rainy season starts in the next few days

Gen. Wainwright reported that the island fortress was under almost constant fire by Japanese artillery on both the north and south shores of Manila bay.

On Mindanao island, American-Filipino patrols were officially reported to have raided and burned eight Japanese food warehouses on the western shore of Davao gulf, one of the "feeding points" for the Japanese thrusts toward Australia.

HE BARS ONE, THEY ALL LEAVE

NEW DELHI—(INS)—Mohammed Ali Jinnah, like New York Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia, was officially "feudin'" with the press today.

The occcidentally-dressed leader of the All-India Moslem league scheduled a press conference at which he expected to discuss briefly the troubles of his threatened country.

The conference was very brief indeed. Jinnah opened it by asking one of the reporters to leave. They all did.

ARRANGE RITES FOR A. CARLIN

He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Cora Parks of near Johnsville.

ANTI-INFLATION PLANS STUDIED

Roosevelt Works on System to Control Prices, Wages and Rents.

clude a campaign to have wage earners set aside a portion of their incomes—perhaps five or 10 per cent—for the purchase of government bonds. If that fails to take up the slack between total income and available goods, then a form of compulsory saving would be ordered. It probably would include partial payment of wages, salaries and other income in non-negotiable government bonds.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson already has the power to freeze prices. That has been done on some commodities But general retail rationing is a big job which many in the government hope to avoid.

Some favor a form of rationing which would limit the quantities of the different commodities each merchant could obtain from his wholesaler. The merchant would then be expected to apportion the goods equitably among his customers. Unless business generally accepts such an over-all program in good faith and cooperates with the government a more drastic form of rationing would be necessary.

J. C. Kirkpatrick Dies At 88, After Long Illness.

Funeral services for Jonathan C. Kirkpatrick, 88, who died yesterday at his home on West Fourth street after a long illness, will be held tomorrow at 1 p. m. from the Finefrock funeral home. Burial will be in Chatham cemetery.

WILL STOP REPAIRS

SPRINGFIELD—(AP)—City Engineer William E. Lucas said that all street repair work would stop about June 1 and 100 WPA men now employed would be transferred to the air corps' Patterson Field.

Emergency Or No Emergency, City's Without A Mayor

said that the mayor "had gone to Cincinnati on some business" but that he hadn't mentioned any of the details.

At the Brunswick hotel, which Wolff operates, employes said that they didn't know how to get in touch with him. Asked if they had any idea what the trip was taken for, they said they had heard some talk of a baseball game.

One of the city employes said that Locke and Wolff might be looking over street-sweepers because Mansfield was in the market for one.

As a matter of coincidence, the Cincinnati Reds were scheduled to open the 1942 National league baseball season today in Cincinnati with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Mayor Locke said yesterday that he intended to go to Washington this week to protest government rulings against the granting of priority preferments which would allow the city to purchase a new fire truck, some fire hose and two new garbage trucks. He made no mention, however, of any trip to Cincinnati.

DECLARES U. S. AIRCRAFT BEST

General Says Bombers Will Be Decisive Factor In War.

AKRON—(U.P.)—Brig. Gen. Arthur W. Vanaman, of Wright Field, said last night that tests have proved that American-designed aircraft are "on the whole, superior to the military weapons of any other nation."

Vanaman, former military attache for air for the United States in Germany, spoke at the Jefferson day dinner of the Summit county Young Men's Democratic club.

He predicted that our heavy bombers will be decisive in a final Allied victory. He reported that "two pursuit planes, the Republic P-47 and Lockheed P-38, are the only planes in the world today that are making 400 miles an hour with full military loads."

From where I sit ...

by Joe Marsh

RUMMAGING through my desk the other day, I came across some snapshots of friends of mine made back in 1933.

If you don't think time flies . . . if you don't think this world ever changes . . . you ought to look at the women's hats and dresses in those pictures taken 9 years ago! Wow!

It gave me quite a start . . . and then it set me to thinking . . . and rememberin'! Lots of things sure happened in 1933. A new administration in Washington . . . the turning point of the depression . . . and the coming of Repeal.

I remember the re-legalization of beer. It came before Repeal, when Congress amended the old Volstead Act to allow legal sale of "3.2" beer.

What talk and arguments they had in those days! One argument I remember well . . . was that beer would do a lot to help bring back prosperity. I wondered at the time whether that argument could be proved.

I thought about that again, the other day. I decided to check up and find out.

Well, I found out plenty. I found out that legal beer has paid more than 3 billion dollars in taxes since 1933. It has made more than a million new jobs.

According to one of the reports I've seen, beer has put more than 15 billion dollars into general business circulation. Goodness me, that's a lot of money.

Beer is sold today in every state in the Union. Every state benefits from beer's jobs and taxes. And I guess there's no denying that beer did do its share in bringing back better times.

I'm glad it did, too, because beer is such a pleasant, appetizing beverage. And it stands for moderation and moderate people . . . it's not likely to get you in trouble.

Joe Marsh

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, APRIL 14, 1942.

Russia can probably be trusted to not be misled by Japanese suavity.

Solemn thought: For every mile you drive at 50 you'll walk a mile later on.

Another story drifting around is to the effect that primitive tribes of New Guinea frighten their children by telling them about civilized people.

Japan Moving Toward India

FAILURE of Great Britain to gain assurance of all-out co-operation of India in the war against Japan, coupled with increased enemy action in the Bay of Bengal, may spell further disaster for the United Nations in the far eastern war zone.

To what extent British dominated India will respond in the event of imminently threatened, or actual, invasion, can only be guessed, but it cannot be doubted that the breakdown of negotiations works to the advantage of the Axis powers.

Nor can it be seen, except as a gesture of interest in the eventual freedom of India, just what might be gained by an appeal from President Roosevelt to the people of India to support the United Nations' war effort.

Sir Stafford Cripps, as Great Britain's special envoy to India, has been regarded as strongly sympathetic with that country's aspirations for dominion status and the right of self government, and was probably much better informed on all of the controversial points than any outsider could be.

With Col. Louis A. Johnson still in India as President Roosevelt's personal envoy, there is a chance, however, that changing conditions within the next few days might bring a change of attitude in the Indian leadership, which for several days last week seemed near agreement on compromise proposals.

The situation is too desperate to justify overlooking any small chance of reaching an agreement that would stimulate India's war effort in advance of an invasion attempt.

April's Place Among the Months

FEBRUARY is not the only month of famous birthdays. April has them, too. Washington Irving, of The Sketch Book; Peter Cooper, inventor and founder of the Cooper Union; Dorothea Dix, to whose interest in the insane is due much of their modern scientific treatment; Henry Clay, too, Thomas Jefferson, U. S. Grant, James Monroe and James Buchanan. Charles Chaplin first saw the light in April, and so did Martha Finley, author of the Elsie Dinsmore stories.

Locally April also achieves a notable record as a birth month, with considerable versatility of accomplishments among those who caught their first glimpse of the world in April. Here are a few of them: Dr. J. L. Stevens, Councilman Charles N. Shultz, Band Director J. M. Holcombe, Dr. D. W. Peppard, Attorney W. H. Gifford, Rationer James Bailey, H. W. Kochheiser, Hon. Charles H. Workman, Herbert S. Jones, George W. DeYarmon, Harry J. Dotson, George H. Smith, Avery C. Hand, Martin W. Brunner, J. S. Weaver, Vocal Music Director LeMoine Derr, Walter Trauger and Marvin J. Cole—just to give you an idea that an April-born child can accomplish most anything he sets his mind to.

Wars have often been started in April, for the obvious reason that spring seems the time to initiate campaigns. There was the American Revolution opening up at Lexington, the Civil war and the Spanish-American war. The United States entered World War 1 April 6, 1917.

The Civil war ended in April, with the surrender of Lee on the ninth and the death of Lincoln six days later—gallant soldier and great president. The American Revolution ended in one April, and the Mexican war came to its stay of arms in another. Willis Thornton has gathered up dozens of interesting things like this in his "Almanac for Americans."

The Mormon church was organized in April, and the North Pole discovered. La Salle reached the Mississippi and called the valley Louisiana. Later by 121 years—also in April—Louisiana was admitted to the Union.

Easter this year came on April 5, Army day on the 6th. Arbor day sees several states planting trees in April. Half of April, 1942, is left. What next?

How Baseball Was Transformed

BABE RUTH, who is on the way to recovery after serious illness, is credited with having transformed the national sport of baseball. Before his day is was such great pitchers as Young, Mathewson, Waddell, Walsh, and Johnson who were the idols of baseball enthusiasts. Scores of 3-2 and 2-1 were numerous. "Home Run" Baker got his name from hitting 12 home runs in a season, besides two in a world series. Those were the days of tight baseball, the sacrifice hit and the stolen base.

Then, "along came Ruth," as the popular song went in his early days. In his first season after transferring from the box to the outfield, he hit 29 homers. There followed 54 in 1920 and 59 in 1921. When he quit in 1935 he had totalled 714, more than any other player in history.

And did the fans love it! The American public discovered that it wanted action in its baseball and had not been getting it. Now it came and in they packed. In the '90's the maximum salary in the National league was $2,400 a year. Making due allowances for the rise in prices and wages, Babe Ruth's salary of $80,000 showed what the homer had done for the national game.

No one is likely to approach the Babe's record. Jimmy Foxx has passed the 500 mark, but is near the end of the trail. A good many ballplayers have been acclaimed as the greatest, but who is there to beat Babe Ruth?

Too Tall for the Army

AN ODDITY in army recruiting is the case of an Ohio boy who can't get into the service. He's in perfect health and vigor, sound in wind and limb, a famous football player, well educated and eager to serve. He's tried the army, navy, coast guard and marine corps, and they all turn him down.

They do it for the seemingly absurd reason that he's too big. He stands 6 feet 7½ inches high in his bare feet and weighs 250 pounds. The fighting services are not equipped to handle a fellow like that. No wonder Tim Baskin of Cincinnati rises in wrath, puffs out his chest, reaches up and hits the ceiling a blow that brings the plaster down, in righteous indignation because they won't give him a chance at the Japs and Nazis.

THE FLAG IS STILL THERE

Wanted--A Name for This War

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

QUITE a controversy has broken out, among authorities who presently will start writing its history as to what our current war ought to be called. The theory is that wars are entitled to a name each, such as will identify 'em all, separately from one another.

Everybody understands perfectly what's meant by a reference to our Revolutionary war. There's no confusion when the Mexican war's mentioned. Our clash between the states is variously termed our War of the Rebellion, our War of Secession and our Civil war, but any one of these designations is accurate enough to be unmistakable. Foreign wars have been the same way—the Boer war, the Napoleonic wars, the Thirty Years' war, and away back into the remotest past, to the days of the Punic wars and assorted spells of international homicide.

It took President Roosevelt to raise the point that now, though, we've fallen into the bad habit of talking about World War I and World War II.

His criticism hadn't had more than sufficient time to get into print before the historical sharks had begun proclaiming in chorus that it was a point exceedingly well taken.

Confusion Ahead.

Not only, these gentry agree, is the No. 1 and No. 2 differentiation inelegant and sloppy, but look at the confusion it ultimately will result in.

Oh, yes, we're able to distinguish all right between so-called World Wars Nos. I and II, both in our own generation, but suppose the ancients, in Old Testament days or thereabouts, had started off by recording War No. I and then War No. II and so on indefinitely up to date. Why now we'd be in the midst of War No. about 1,000,000, and nobody could keep the remotest track of the series between the first one and the millionth.

We fancy, according to the historians, that when we speak of a war as a WORLD WAR we've put it into a different classification from all other kinds, and as long as we don't have more than two of three of 'em, we can describe 'em numerically so's to be understood by posterity.

But what we forget, explain the experts, is that ALL wars probably are going to be worldwide henceforward, and, a few centuries ahead, the figure'll be so formidable that school books won't be able to make any sense out of them.

President Roosevelt's scheme is to choose a suitable World War II name on the strength of a popular contest. Savants don't very unitedly indorse this idea. They'd prefer to make their own selection. The trouble is that they don't put forward a title that fits over-satisfactorily. The "War in Defense of Democracy" is proposed but it is lengthy and lacks pep, it's generally conceded. Furthermore, "defense" isn't exactly the term desired. "OFF-ense" is more popular. Yet even that won't look quite right in historical literature in 2044 or later.

Besides, World War I remains to be appropriately christened.

The Last War.

Most American historians recorded it simply as "the World war" until the latest strife broke loose. European scribes usually named it "the Great war." It was "the European war" until the United States cracked into it. After that it ceased to be exclusively European. It wasn't any greater or more worldwide than this one, either. In fact, it wasn't as much so.

President Roosevelt perhaps was joshing when he called for a name to fit the emergency, but the historians are serious. They've got two wars on their hands to get into text books, and they've got to have compact, pungent names to identify 'em by, and the demand for the current war's name is urgent.

The War of What?

It must include a patriotic boost for the democracies of a vicious jab at the Axis or both, if a combination of 'em is possible.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, April 14, 1922.

Judge N. M. Wolfe was injured when struck by automobile on North Mulberry street.

First Lutheran church was filled for Good Friday noonday service.

Neil S. Robinson, student at Ohio State university, was spending vacation with his parents here.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Bancroft, Sturges avenue, went to Montpelier, Vt., for two weeks visit.

Harvey Grabler, Sherman avenue, was reported improving after serious illness.

Richard Lane was moving drug store from 69 North Main street to corner of Fourth and Walnut.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Wednesday, April 14, 1937.

Mansfield-Richland county public health department was awarded honorable mention in the eighth annual City and Rural Health Conservation contest.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Gloyd, 33 Park Drive.

Worst electrical and windstorm in months caused damage estimated at $10,000 in the city.

Miss Ruth Leighley assumed the position of reference librarian at the Mansfield Public library.

Automobiles operated by Michael Tuscan and Boyd Knofflock collided at West Fourth street and Pleasant avenue.

TODAY IN HISTORY

It was on Good Friday, April 14, 1865, while attending the performance of "Our American Cousin" at Ford's theater in Washintgon, D. C., that President Abraham Lincoln was shot. The original plot was to assassinate the president, vice-president and certain members of the cabinet. An attempt on the life of Secretary of State William H. Seward was also made but Seward escaped serious injury.

"Pop, what d'ya say we pool our dough and buy me a baseball suit?"

Health And Diet

Health Questions Are Answered.

F. Y. C.: What is the cause of diabetes? Is it true that a person will go blind from it? What is the cause of the skin being very itchy? It is more so at night. There are no scaly eruptions.

Answer: You are badly mixed up. It would be impossible to tell you all you want to know in a short answer. You should consult the doctor and put your questions to him. The itching skin is due to diabetes.

A. R.: Will lemon juice help one to reduce? If so, how much juice could safely be used per day?

Answer: Lemon juice itself does not do any reducing. Its only function is to satisfy the appetite partially and keep you from eating more nutritious foods of high caloric value. Lemon juice itself has a very low caloric value. There is hardly any limit to the amount of lemon juice a person can take a day. At least three or four lemons are perfectly safe.

M. F.: Do you think it is advisable to have a lung collapsed if one's condition is not serious, only a small spot above the apex bone? Is it a dangerous procedure?

Answer: If your doctor advises it, he being on the ground, I would certainly advise it. Often the best results are obtained in the earliest cases. It is not dangerous.

R. W.: Our children do not eat vegetables so well. Are raw vegetables as good for them as the cooked ones, such as carrots, cabbage, potatoes, celery, tomatoes and the like?

Answer: Very few children like vegetables. They are more or less of an acquired taste. Childhood days are made horrible by food faddists who insist on children's eating vegetables. Raw vegetables are just as good for them as the cooked vegetables. Meat is very good for children.

Timely Editorial

Pick Up That Glass!

As a part of the save-tires-for-victory program, how about a little neighborly consideration? There is too much broken glass on the streets. Much of it results from accidents not considered serious; from traffic bumps that break headlights and tail lights.

It would be a patriotic service for those who get mixed up in such accidents to pick up glass during the "Who's-to-blame?" argument period. Doing the job together would restore friendly understanding and would prevent subsequent tire damage.—Detroit News.

Many Criticize Maritime Board For Attitude On Patriotic Offers

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

(Editor's Note: The following is another article in the series on the crucial U. S. shipping situation.)

WASHINGTON—One of the chief criticisms insiders make against the maritime commission is its resistance to independent initiative and ideas. The Truman committee has a big stack of complaints from enterprising business men eager to risk their own money to build ships but unable to get a break from the commission.

A graphic illustration of the hide-bound attitude permeating the commission is the case of the West Stanislaus county, California, bean growers.

Military and civilian war chiefs consider it vital that every one on the home front be made to feel that he is playing a direct and personal part in the war effort. Every war agency spends much time and effort devising ways of stimulating this spirit of patriotic participation.

Wthout any spurring from Washington, the patriotic bean growers of West Stanislaus county figured out a plan to make a personal contribution to the war production program. So they wrote a letter to the maritime commission saying:

"You need scrap steel for ships and we farmers need an outlet for an overwhelming desire to help our country. We don't want to sell our scrap to junk dealers. We don't want anyone to make any money on it. We want to give it to the government. We are ready to make a county-wide drive to collect every available pound of scrap. We can promise to collect enough scrap to build a ship and we will deliver it to a mill and the mill can mail a check—earmarked as a contribution for more ships—to the U. S. treasury.

"We're co-operating in the 'Food for Victory Program,' we're organized on civilian defense, but what we really want to do is to get in on the offense."

The response to this stirring patriotic offer was a polite bucket of cold water.

In a letter to the farmers, Rear Admiral Howard L. Vickery, vice chairman of the maritime commission, gave a number of picayune reasons why the scrap offer could not be accepted. There wasn't one of these minor objections that couldn't have been easily overcome — had the commission really wanted to bestir itself.

But the bean growers' plan would have required a little initiative on the commission's part, so the commission passed the buck. Vickery advised the farmers to "get in touch with the department of agriculture's county war board chairman who is familiar with the procedure to follow"—that is, to turn the scrap over to a commercial dealer.

Significant Primary.

THE most significant primary election since Pearl Harbor takes place in Illinois today for the senatorial seat now precariously held by the Chicago Tribune's "Charlie McCarthy" Senator Wayland (Curley) Brooks. Brooks a Republican, is up for renomination on his own party ticket, but because of the controversial atmosphere about his political mentor Col. Bertie McCormick, even with the advantage of being "in," he is not considered a sure bet for renomination.

On the Democratic side, however, is the real race. There, a Quaker professor from the University of Chicago, Paul Douglas, has challenged the candidate of the Kelly-Nash machine, Congressman Raymond McKeough, and, much to the surprise of everyone, has picked up amazing strength. If nominated he seems pretty sure to beat out the "Curley" Brooks-Chicago Tribune combination. However, the Kelly-Nash organization has played significantly close to the Tribune in the past, so it is doubtful that the smoothly greased wards of Kelly-Nash in Chicago will ever let Professor Douglas get the Democratic nomination.

If they do, however, Illionis will have a real senator in Washington instead of a "Charlie McCarthy."

Wanted, Hoarders.

HERE'S a chance for you to do some hoarding that will make a real contribution to the war effort.

The government wants you, whether you are a big or little consumer, to start laying in next winter's coal supply now. The object is to ease the transportation strain when cold weather returns. Also it will ensure adequate coal supplies for war industries which will be roaring at peak levels then.

Unlike other hoardings, laying in a stock of coal is a real patriotic act. So far, however, the response from industry and householders has been very tepid. Authorities warn that unless coal purchases increase apperciably soon, drastic priority measures will have to be taken to avert a coal shortage and rationing next winter.

Sneak TVA Attack.

THERE is a lot beneath the surface of Senator Kenneth McKellar's bill providing that TVA turn over its power receipts to the treasury. If enacted, this measure would put the Tennessean in a position to torpedo the whole TVA program, which he has come to hate with a seething fury.

TVA would be compelled to go to congress for all its operating funds, and with McKellar occupying the driver's seat of the powerful senate appropriations committee, he would be able to wield a murderous axe on TVA.

McKellar's undercover maneuvers to grease the skids for his bill have brought to light the fact that he is getting sub rosa aid in his anti-administration attack from Senator "Cotton Ed" Smith of South Carolina, New Deal-hating chairman of the agriculture committee, to which the bill was referred.

To consider McKellar's bill, Smith appointed a subcommittee consisting of Senator John Bankhead of Alabama, chairman, and anti-New Deal Senators George Aiken of Vermont and William ("Silent Bill") Bulow of South Dakota. Also, all this was done when Senator George Norris, father of the TVA and a member of the agriculture committee, was absent.

Norris' omission obviously was to prevent him from fighting McKellar's scheme. Further, when a clerk in Norris' office called the agriculture committee to inquire about hearings on the bill, she was told none had yet been scheuled.

Actually, 24 hours before Norris' clerk called, the hearings had already been set for the following Monday.

Bankhead's participation in McKellar's undercover plan to riddle TVA is causing the Alabaman trouble in his state, which is strongly pro-TVA.

Note: Square-shooting Senator Charles McNary, Republican Floor Leader, took a poke at the McKellar-Smith tactics by sharply calling the senate's attention to the fact that this was the first time Norris had not been named a member of a committee acting on TVA legislation.

Mail Bag.

J. S. R., Des Moines, Ia.—Senator Clyde Herring has served in elective office longer than any other Democrat in the history of Iowa: Two terms as governor (4 years), plus six years as senator. Total, 10 years . . . T. M. Washington—Hugh McCarthy, clerk in the office of representative Gene Cox, did not bill Station WALB for $226 in connection with its application for a change in frequency. The bill was for claimed services in another matter. Also the Station did not write McCarthy declining to pay but advised him of this orally.

WASHINGTON—Answering the mail:

A. E. K., Bremerton, Wash.; E. H., Topeka, Kan., and others—I have had so many requests for additional information as to what individuals can do to aid in the airplane model buildng program (in which more than 500,000 scale models are to be built for the American armed forces to study in preliminary training) I can do NO more than outline the answers.

There are more than 50 different types of fighting planes and the navy alone needs at least 10,000 models of each for aircraft recognition training and gunnery sighting practice.

Since these models must be accurate to the thirty-secondth of an inch (the scale is one to 72—so that a model seen at 35 feet is identical with a real plane seen at just under a half a mile), the navy has not seen fit to turn this over to the general public, unsupervised. The cost of inspection and rejection, in such case, probably would be more than the cost of letting contracts to private firms.

THEREFORE, Secretary of the Navy Knox has turned his demands over to the Office of Education and Commissioner John W. Studebaker already has it well under way. Working with state departments of education, he has placed the responsibility on the high school manual training students.

The reason for this is two-fold: (1) The navy needs half a million models immediately and there probably is no other established set-up through which it can get them so quickly; (2) these are solid wood, non-flying models and require delicate lathe work, planing and carving that the average model airplane enthusiast is not equipped to turn out.

However, the navy's demands are small compared to what will be necessary when civilian defense launches its drive to teach air raid spotters the silhouettes, altitudes, flying speeds, etc., of every fighting plane.

Therefore, it is probable that thousands of manual training teachers will follow the lead some already have taken in soliciting the aid of non-school woodworkers and model building fans. In some cities, high school woodworking and manual training instructors have organized model building clubs and this is certain to spread.

Considering the wear and tear on models built on a one to 72 scale, the rapid expansion of our armed forces, model building is an activity that is bound to last for the duration.

A Farmer's Diary

Nesting Time

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

FOR three weeks I followed the progress of a pair of robins. Saw the male arrive one cold snowy morning. I noticed with a sense of pity, how discouraged and disappointed he seemed. Only at long intervals did he give a melancholy chirp.

The next day was cold and the ground frozen, but the sun shone. I saw him scurry about for food, then jubilantly race after the mate he had chosen for himself. At first there seemed to be indecision in the female's mind—for there were others. But it was evident that he had a theory and a plan. By pressing his suit without abatement or interruption, he gave her little time or chance for reflection on the other cravens waiting near. The following morning, when he and his pretty mate conversed most intimately about the choice of nesting place, I thought I heard him chortling that old proverb, "faint heart never won fair lady."

I hoped they would build in the apple tree beside the kitchen windows, but they had other plans, and finally chose a wild apple tree above the road. The female did the choosing and built most of the nest. Twice I saw him fly close, and look, and even touch the half built house, but when she returned with new material, she would have none of his help and scolded soundly.

Four days later I saw one blue egg in the nest—after two more days another. In less than a week four eggs were laid. "He also serves who only stands and waits," the father robin twitted at me, while he flitted about standing guard over his household.

One cloudy morning it began to rain, then snow, then sleet. Before dark I went up again to see that all was well. I noticed, looking down on the nest from higher ground, that the brooding mother had her wings extended wide to shelter the outer portion. The feathers of her back and wings were wet. I thought I saw her shiver, as I watched. Her mate chirped harshly. He, too, was burdened with rain and sleet.

I scattered some grain from my pocket about the tree's base and left for the night. Next morning I hurried up before doing my morning chores. The mother sat in the same position as the night before, with wings extended a little farther. Her eyes did not move. When I drew closer and climbed up to see, she did not fly, as I expected. Instead I touched a limp drenched body, with only faint signs of life. When I lifted her off, I found four fuzzy babies, just hatched.

The father robin, wet and bedraggled, looking on, was not the only mourner.

While at Center Hall, Dr. Henry will examine pupils from Windsor, Beuna Vista and Forest Hall. Wednesday, he will move to Shiloh and Adario.

CHAPTER XXII

Mrs. Gordon dropped her crocheting and struck Louise across the mouth with all her strength.

Louise stood perfectly still. A little streak of blood showed on her lips. Mechanically she wiped it away with the back of her hand. "Mother, don't you ever do that again! Don't you ever touch me again as long as you live!"

Mrs. Gordon was shaken and somewhat abashed by the suddenness of her own rage. But she felt she must keep face.

"And what will you do about it, Miss?"

"I'll kill you," Louise said calmly. Then, shouting, she pushed Mrs. Gordon toward the door.

"Get out of here! Get out of here, do you hear? Get out of here."

Drake's horse clop-clopped softly along the sandy road. The wheels made scarcely a sound. The buggy top was down and the late sun glistened on Randy's thick shining hair.

"I've got to go home," she said.

"Aw—what for?"

"It's getting late. Pa'll be getting home, and he likes me to be there for supper."

"Well, if you want to—"

"Why don't you come home and have supper with us?"

"You want me to?"

"Of course. I think Pa likes you, ever since that time you walked in and asked him right out if you could take me out buggy-riding."

"Never says anything against me?"

"Never. Not a word. He always says you're all right."

"Gee. That's nice."

"What's new from Parris?" Randy asked as they neared town.

"Just short notes. Seems to be getting along."

"I think people talk more about Parris now than they did when he was here."

"Yeh. He's somebody you don't forget, somehow. But I think this old town's proud of having him over in Europe studying medicine."

"Yes, I think so, too. Like Vera Lichinsky."

"What about her?"

"She's gone to Europe, too."

"You don't say!"

"About two months ago. There was a long piece in the paper about her. She's going to be a concert violinist."

Randy laughed shortly. "Aren't we the old stick-in-the-muds?"

Drake's glance was deeply serious. "It's good for me that you're here."

Drake walked across the lawn and stopped to straighten a row of sea shells that bordered a rectangular flower bed near the drive. It had been his Aunt Mamie's favorite spot. All of her pet plants flourished here. It was looking a little withered just now, but of course it was late September. He'd get the place fixed up—have the house painted and the low picket fence taken down. There were really many repairs to be made. No wonder the house didn't rent. He had never looked at it closely before. It was dilapidated, that's what it was—downright dilapidated.

The lawn was as pretty as any on Union street. Needed reseeding, though.

He heard the telephone ringing. He went slowly and indifferently toward the house. It was Mr. Wakefield calling.

"Could you come down here to the bank for a few minutes?"

"Nothing important. Just want to see you for a second."

"Be right down, sir."

Half an hour later he faced Mr. Wakefield at the cashier's window.

Mr. Wakefield came back and unlocked the heavy oak door.

"You're overdrawn a little, you know."

"Overdrawn?"

"Yes. Let me see. I think about eighty dollars, or so, nothing to speak of."

"But it ought not to be overdrawn."

Mr. Wakefield smiled. "Do you keep your checkbook in order?"

Drake grinned. "Sometimes I forget."

"Well, I guess that's it."

"But—could I speak to Mr. Curley?"

"Mr. Curley's in Texas. Went down on business. I expect him back next week."

"But I thought I had moren'n a thousand dollars in my account!"

Mr. Wakefield stared a little.

"How could you be that far off?"

"I'm sure I'm not."

Mr. Wakefield smiled again. "Now, Drake—"

"No. Sure enough, Mr. Wakefield. I haven't been spending any money—not much. And on the first of July there must have been about a thousand dollars put in."

"Well, well. I see. Drake, I guess Mr. Curley just overlooked it. But he's usually very punctilious, indeed."

"What about my account?"

"Well, we'll fix that up. It's just a matter of a few days. I can arrange that myself. You won't require the whole amount, of course?"

"No, certainly not."

"Mr. Curley ought to be back on Tuesday. I'll call you."

On the way back to his own window, Mr. Wakefield stopped to speak to Percy Davis. They chatted for a moment.

"Um." Mr. Wakefield grunted noncommittally, but there was a slightly troubled look in his eye. Mr. Curley was a reticent man, but he usually discussed such matters with someone. Mr. Wakefield tried to recall the terms of Rhodes Livingstone's will, but he was pretty sure that Curley had an absolute freedom in managing the estate.

All through the morning Mr. Wakefield was somewhat distrait. He always walked home to midday dinner, leaving the bank exactly at half-past twelve. Today he left fifteen minutes earlier.

When he returned, Mr. Wakefield waited on several customers. Then he called Percy Davis. Davis was a round-faced elderly man who had been in the Farmers Exchange for many years.

"Yes, sir, Mr. Wakefield."

"Come on back to the vault with me, Percy."

"Yes, sir."

They entered the vault.

"Which is Mr. Curley's box?"

"Right up there, Mr. Wakefield, that brown one."

"Has he another?"

"No, sir. He keeps all of his personal papers in there, and the three—no, four estates he's executor and trustee for."

"I see. Hand it down here to me a minute."

"Here you are, Mr. Wakefield—why—why—"

"What, man? What's the matter?"

"Why, it seems very light!"

* * *

Mr. Wakefield took the box and hefted it.

"It's empty."

Davis stared, his little button mouth making a perfect O.

Mr. Wakefield spoke casually. "Percy."

"Yes, sir. Yes, sir."

"There's no use you and me trying to fool each other. We've got to face this in a few hours, anyhow. Might as well be now."

Percy sat down on the low ladder.

"Yes, sir. I guess so."

"Well. Unless I'm mightily mistaken the president of the Farmers Exchange has skipped out—probably with everything he could lay his hands on!"

The Farmers Exchange scandal was the prevailing sensation for a month. There were all sorts of stories and rumors. The bald fact remained: James Cuthbert Curley, president of the Farmers Exchange bank, had stolen money and run away. Presumably he had gone to Central or South America. Efforts were being made to find him but no one was particularly hopeful of success. Certain bank funds were missing. Stockholders would not lose anything, but the trust funds were gone. Drake McHugh was penniless. The house on Union street was his, and Mr. Wakefield arranged a mortgage so that Drake would have some funds to live on for a while.

No one guessed how bewildered Drake was by this ill fortune. He had simply never thought about money at all. He sold his horse and buggy, and began to look for a job. No one wanted him.

Behind his back the talk went on. There were those who were not displeased to see Drake McHugh humbled a little. He had been altogether too carefree and happy to suit those who felt that life should not rest too easily on one. Maybe he'd stop flying around at night.

Even the Monaghan girl would be showing him the front gate.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — These are tough times, and they are going to get tougher.

Bataan is gone — gone after forcing the Japs to gather ten to one odds in men and hundreds to one in planes.

Wainwright and his American and Filipino boys put up the kind of a fight that makes you feel like cheering and crying at the same time. The fact they lost detracts in no way from their glory.

Gen. Johnson.

But we can't shut our eyes to the fact they did lose. Our Pacific outposts are now Hawaii, Australia and the Aleutians.

Corregidor is merely a temporary and isolated rock of resistance—a tribute to undying bravery, but no longer an integral part of our Pacific defenses.

No earthly good can come of talking about what might have been, and I am going to keep my mouth shut on that score. Let's face just what we are up against now.

We are PREPARING to fight a war and FIGHTING it at the same time. This means just one thing:

We've got to take a licking until we are able to swing a few from the ankles ourselves.

Meanwhile, we are making heroes—boys who fight under such impossible odds that devotion to country is all that can keep them going. This is heartening, but heart-rending.

Where does the black news from Bataan, the Bay of Bengal, Burma and Ceylon leave us?

We've got to produce as never before—against time.

We must maintain our outposts as long as possible, even if it means that the boys go down fighting—against time.

We're going to use that time to sweat out every last weapon that we can.

We're going to raise and train and equip an army and transport it on a scale never before attempted.

We will live on bare subsistence if necessary to do this.

The time for all this sacrifice is right now.

Already our potentialities are beginning to be realized. Muscles which are fat and flabby with disuse are strengthening.

Actually, in a few short months, we now appear to be meeting the president's program which at first seemed fantastically high. But even this is only the beginning.

The great need is ships. Tanks and planes rusting in warehouses will do neither us nor our Allies any good.

Every day the oil, guns, tanks, ships and planes, so sorely needed on our battle-fronts, are lost through sinkings. The rate of ship construction is all too low to absorb these losses and still get sufficient equipment across the thousands of miles of ocean to the battle-fronts.

This, then, is our prime battle-front. We must build ships faster and faster and cut down the sinkings.

When Hitler's spring offensive starts, there will be more need than ever for all sinews of war.

Bataan's loss can be answered only through production on a scale that staggers the imagination.

The devotion to duty shown by the men who fought there, must be matched in factories, shipyards, homes, in the board rooms of corporations and in the headquarters of unions.

Washington and congress must remember that we are fighting a war all over the world with Americans' blood and tears, and not in a November congressional election.

TRAIN MEN FOR KEY POSITIONS, FOREMEN TOLD

Slow Up in War Production Threatened Due to Loss of Men to Service.

Faced with the loss of skilled workers to the army and to plants offering better pay and working conditions, industry must train men for key positions and make jobs more attractive to avoid a slowing up of war production, members of the Mansfield-Shelby Foremen club were told last night at their monthly meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

The speaker was Joseph R. Stroebel, supervisor of vocational training for the Cleveland board of education and former director of the National Association of Foremen.

"Labor supply is the No. 1 problem today," Stroebel said. "Most of the capable men have been placed in war jobs, the relief rolls have been searched for workers and the nation's vocational schools are busier than ever before turning out laborers to fit into the war production program.

Some plants are meeting the problem, he continued, by fitting employes to jobs, setting up training programs of their own, simplifying their production by breaking down jobs so more men can do them, and making their skilled workers more versatile.

Because the number of young workers who will be called by the army will steadily increase, plants must have others trained to replace them, Stroebel said.

He urged industries to take advantage of vocational training programs such as that offered at Mansfield Senior high school, or build up classes that will make it worthwhile for instructors in supervision and foremanship to come here from Toledo and Akron universities.

"The war has brought schools and industry together, making the school facilities available to industry as they should be," he added. "There is more free training now for the worker who wants it than ever before."

P. H. Wooden, president of the foremen's club, named a nominating committee in preparation for the election of officers at the May meeting. Placed on the committee were R. O. Richards of Westinghouse as chairman; C. F. Beddard, Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company, and Wade Clow, Ohio Brass company.

Capt. A. A. Nichoson of New York City, personnel manager of the Texas company, will speak at the May meeting.

Nels Blocher's orchestra entertained during the dinner period at last night's session.

In appreciation, the youngsters will give a demonstration of their work for the party patrons. Mrs. Mina L. Steak and mushrooms—big, juicy, homegrown mushrooms—were the order of the day today at the Bill Bremelin home, 520 Newman street. It's considerably earlier in the season than such reports usually come in, but Bill reports that he found nine specimens of the black sponge variety near Epworth.

For the fifth consecutive year, Rollie F. Membership in the "Dependables" hinges on meeting an annual quota of new business, and Miller has made his quota every year since the plan was instituted.

Members of Mansfield's Citizenship club, residents who are studying for naturalization, take an active interest in all things American. To prove this point, they recently called attention to the lack of an American flag in the office of the mayor. Today an eight-foot silk American flag was delivered to the municipal building. It was a gift from the Citizenship club to the city and was immediately placed in Mayor W. J. Locke's office.

Rev. Harold H. Lentz, on leave of absence from his pastorate in Ashland and widely known in Mansfield, has been awarded a fellowship at Yale university, according to announcement by the dean of the Yale Graduate school. Now studying for his Ph.D. degree, he has maintained a straight "A" record in his graduate studies at Yale.

OFFICIAL SAYS STEADY FLOW TO CONTINUE

Tells House of Commons Help Will Not Depend on Ability to Pay.

(By International News Service)

LONDON — The United States already has sent $2,400,000,000 worth of lend-lease war materials to Britain and a steady stream is expected whether this nation can pay the bill or not, Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Kingsley Wood told the house of commons today.

"Lend-lease deliveries from the United States are a vital factor in our war effort," he said in presenting his budget for the current year.

"Lease-lend deliveries to the United Kingdom up to March 31 totaled approximately 600,000,000 pounds sterling ($2,400,000,000)

"We can be assured that movement of munitions and other essential supplies to the United Kingdom from overseas will be conditioned not upon our ability or inability to pay, but upon the requirements of military policy and the availability of transport."

Sir Kingsley paid lavish tribute to American aid.

"Since last year," he said, "the broadening swell of American productive efforts meant an ever-increasing flow to us of food, ammunition and supplies of all kinds."

The future trend of lend-lease aid, he said, obviously must depend not only upon American production but upon shipping and military necessities elsewhere.

"A larger proportion of the total henceforth will be transferred to India and the dominions," he said.

"Lease-lend will be more flexible hereafter."

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Speaking For Myself.

I HEAR that because of the national emergency there is an alarming shortage of chorus boys for the Broadway musicals, and I wonder if this will not in time produce interesting results.

Kilgallen

Will the chorus boy, as he becomes more rare, become more precious? Will his salary go up like a rocket? Will he become as necessary, and therefore as temperamental, as a prima donna? Perhaps in a season or so, chorus boys will be contracted for months ahead of the signing of a star, ingenue or comedian; perhaps groups of Broadway entrepreneurs will sit around tables at Sardis and one will whisper, "I know where we can get eight chorus boys—let's do a musical," perhaps in the not too far away future Eddie Cantor will be known to make a sly deal, trading three of his best show girls for one of Vinton Freedly's dancing boys.

Of course, if the situation gets too, too awful, the producers may just say the heck with it, and put the chorus girls in trousers. This would reverse the procedure followed by the Princeton Triangle Club and other college drama societies, and it might be very interesting.

It might also elicit numerous loud complaints from the bald-headed row.

I wish something could be done to persuade the film reviewers not to tell their readers about the surprise gags in the new pictures. Current example of what they did that they shouldn't have done is the current Bob Hope flicker, "My Favorite Blonde," in which Bing Crosby appears in a wonderful brief sequence that hits you in the solar plexus (and funnybone) if it's unexpected, but is just a mild chuckle if you are ready and waiting for it.

Almost without exception, the movie critics made a point of mentioning it. I know it's hard to keep a secret, but for the sake of laughs in these unlaughing times the boys and girls ought to let their audiences get the chuckle without previous warning.

Of all the people I've ever encountered, Mark Hanna best fits the word "glib." I wouldn't like to see him in a talking contest opposite Ursula Parrott, who is about the fastest feminine syllable-slinger I know. I would put George Shaw third, but not close to either of them. Even though it may make for civic betterment, I am perversely sentimental enough to wish that the 42nd st Toonerville trolley could be preserved indefinitely. It's about the only small town touch left in the heart of the hurly-burly big town.

My last sleepless night was accounted for by Elliott Paul's fascinating book, "The Last Time I Saw Paris." One chapter, and you forget all about putting out the light and turning over . . . I wish Marlene Dietrich, Joan Crawford, Bette Davis and a few other Hollywoodians would make good the oft-circulated rumors, statements and predictions and turn up on the Broadway stage. We could use some excitement in these parts.

It occurs to me that of all the Main Stem motorists I know, Lee Shubert is the most enviable limousine owner in Manhattan. HEARING OPENS

Testimony Starts in $10,000 Shelby Damage Suit.

A damage suit in which Elizabeth Horning of Shelby, asks $10,000 as the result of injuries received when she slipped on an icy sidewalk and fell two years ago, was being heard today by a Richland county petit jury.

Clara O. Scott and James B. Scott of Shelby are defendants. The Scotts operate Scott's Specialty shop in Shelby before which the plaintiff claims she fell in January, 1940, and received permanent injuries.

In her petition the plaintiff claims her right leg was fractured in three places and that she was confined to bed for a period of six months and crippled thereafter to the extent she could not perform some of her ordinary household duties.

MRS. MEESE TO HEAD LEAGUE

Succeeds Mrs. McDermott as Women Voters' President; War Service Studied.

Mrs D. O. Meese, program chairman of the Richland County League of Women Voters for the past year, was elected to the presidency of that organization Monday afternoon to succeed Mrs. Thomas P. McDermott.

Election of officers was held at a luncheon meeting in Park avenue Baptist church prior to a talk on the League's service in war time by Mrs. James Hoffman of Rocky River, a member of the national board.

Miss Bertha A. Gregory, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A., was elected first vice president and Mrs. McDermott, second vice president. Miss Ruth Dunham, secretary, and Mrs. Herman Hautzenroeder, treasurer, were re-elected. Mrs. Mina L. Nase was chairman of the nominating committee.

The speaker, Mrs. Hoffman, social welfare chairman and the only Ohio woman on the national board, told the 40 women present that the purpose of the League in war time is the same as it always has been, to educate for active participation in government, plus the introduction of some new methods of doing it.

PROTEST VOTE EYED IN FIRST PRIMARY SINCE PEARL HARBOR

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO—The nation's first primary since Pearl Harbor came to a vote in Illinois today, with U. S. Senator Watland "Curly" Brooks taking the spotlight in his quest for Republican renomination.

A vigorous isolationist before Dec. 7, Senator Brooks has announced that he will continue to criticize administration war measures if re-elected, and the size of the "protest vote" against him will be eyed closely for this reason.

State Treasurer Warren E. Wright, Brooks' opponent, failed to get any Republican organizational support, from either wing of the party, but "went to the people" with repeated attacks on the senator's defense and war policy record.

At least 2,000,000 voters, possibly 2,500,000 were expected to cast their ballots for Republican and Democratic nominees before the polls, opening at 6 a. m., closed at 5 p. m. today. The Illinois primary vote was 2,550,642 in 1938 and 2,647,373 in 1940.

Besides the senatorial nominees, party standard bearers were to be selected for 25 congressional seats and state and county offices, with all the final decisions left for the national off-year elections next Nov. 3.

Sharing top interest with the Brooks-Wright battle was a much more closely-contested race for the Democratic senatorial nomination. Congressman Raymond S. McKeough and Prof. Paul H. Douglas, one of whom will oppose Brooks in the fall if he is nominated, appeared to be neck-and-neck for this berth. Both are pro-Roosevelt.

Government Saves $9,500,000 By Changing Contract

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The government save $9,500,000 by renegotiating war contracts with Jack and Heintz, Incorporated, of Cleveland, a spokesman for the house naval committee said today.

The saving, Committee Counsel Edmund Toland added, was a direct result of the committee's recent disclosure of huge profits and high salaries and bonuses received by officials and employes of the company.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) said that as a result of committee activities, the government would save an estimated $250,000,000 on various contracts throughout the nation.

Toland said that unit costs of airplane engine starters, which Jack and Heintz manufactures, had been reduced 25 per cent already and that distribution of profits through big salaries and bonuses had been discontinued.

At Cleveland, W. Russell Jack company vice president, said negotiations for reductions began before company executives were called to testify before the committee.

REVIEW OF STEINBECK'S NEW NOVEL PRESENTED

"The Moon Is Down," Dramatic Narrative of Town's Invasion By Nazis, Reviewed By Mrs. Benninghoff.

A DRAMATIC word picture of conquest by Nazis of a little rural town that could be anywhere in any civilized country occupied by free men and women was presented last night in an interesting manner by Mrs. W. E. Benninghoff of Cleveland, when she reviewed John Steinbeck's new novel, "The Moon Is Down."

Fourth in a series of reviews to be presented by Mrs. Benninghoff this season under the auspices of the Women's Association of the First Congregational church was heard by a capacity audience in the auditorium of the Park Avenue Baptist church.

Mrs. Charles Fox, president of the Women's Association, extended greetings and announced that another series will begin on Oct. 2. Mrs. Benninghoff will return to this city on the first Friday of each month.

Structurally, "The Moon Is Down" is written like a play. There are no unnecessary words, Mrs. Benninghoff pointed out that a reader "can see characters, like actors, waiting in the wings for their cue."

Theme of the novel is that "a free, brave people is unconquerable." Steinbeck doesn't give the town a name, but it is supposedly Norwegian (or it could be Belgian, or Dutch, or Czech). The reviewer described it as a "universal town."

The opening pages of the novel present the rustic, elderly Mayor Orden and Dr. Winter feeling exactly what any civilized people would feel in their places—an embarrassed uncertainty as to how to act when conquered.

On the Sunday morning that the town was invaded, the postman and the policeman had gone fishing in the boat of George Correll, popular storekeeper. He had lent them his trim sailboat for the day. While they were several miles at sea the two men saw a small, dark transport, loaded with soldiers, go quietly past them. The battalion was in possession by the time the two men could make port. They, officials of the town, were helpless.

It became known, then, that Mr. Correll had been in the town for some time, winning the friendship and confidence of the residents as "the popular storekeeper," and paving the way for the Nazi invasion.

On this Sunday morning he had arranged for the local troops to be away by donating lunch, targets, cartridges and prizes for a shooting competition to take place six miles back in the hills in a lovely glade which Mr. Correll owned.

Moving toward doom without any choice are these people: the professionally sophisticated Col. Lanser, Capt. Bentinck, "a family man, a lover of dogs and children and Christmas"; the militant, heel-clicking Capt. Loft; Lieut. Prackle, "a gay young man who nevertheless could scowl like the leader, could brood like the leader"; Lieut. Tonder, the bitter poet, who was lonely and who was in love with Molly Morden; the good, simple Mayor Orden; Dr. Winter with his sardonic touch; Mrs. Orden, who tried in vain to keep her husband neatly brushed; Molly Morden, whose husband had been killed; the servants, Joseph and Annie.

Dr. Winter, speaking of the invaders, says: "A time-minded people, and the time is nearly up. They think that just because they have only one leader and one head we are all like that. They know that 10 heads lopped off will destroy them, but we are a free people; we have as many heads as we have people, and in a time of need leaders pop up among us like mushrooms."

The mayor tells the enemy colonel that nothing can change the town. He warns the invaders that they will be driven out. "The people don't like to be conquered, sir, and so they will not be. Free men cannot start a war, but once it is started they can fight on in defeat. Herd men, followers of a leader, cannot do that, and so it is always the herd men who win battles and the free men who win wars. You will find that is so, sir."

Book-of-the-Month club selection for April, "The Moon Is Down," has been described by various critics as being destined not only to be "the book of the year," but is also a stage play, a motion picture and a radio drama. E. L. Duffus, New York Times reviewer, says "It is all those things and merits being all of them." The stage play opened in New York last week.

WHAT CAN I DO?

Care For What You Have

EDITOR'S NOTE—
(Editor's Note: This is the second of a series of articles on how women in the home can help in this country's war effort.)

By GLADYS DEGNER
Wide World Features Writer.

Now is the time for all good housewives to come to the aid of their country. You can make your first patriotic gesture without stepping from the domain in which you are queen—your kitchen. It is the room where your biggest investment lies and which you won't be able to refurnish for—well, no one knows just how long it will be. Almost everything in your kitchen is on the priorities list, so begin right there by taking care of what you have.

Your refrigerator works hard for you. Don't let it grow old and delapidated through neglect or carelessness. Keep the outside clean with mild soap and water, the inside with warm soda water. The best time to wash the inside is when you defrost the refrigerator. This should be done regularly to save electricity. Always wipe up spilled food in the cabinet immediately. It's wise to have a service man check your refrigerator occasionally to be certain you're not wasting electricity.

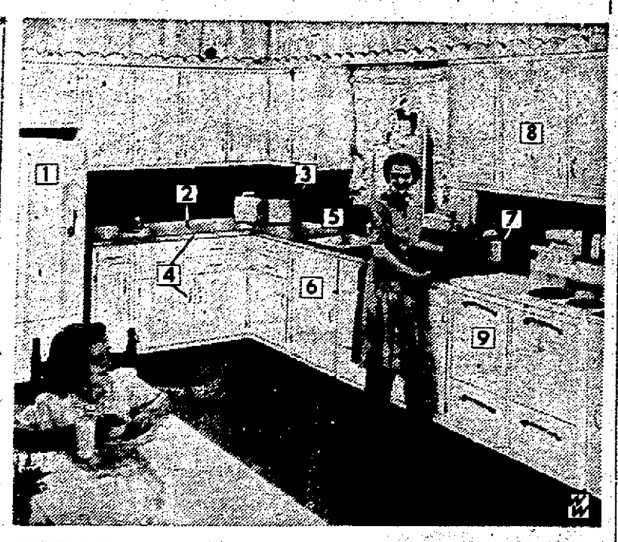
Cherish That Stove.

Your stove may have cooked your meals for years and your job is to see that it can continue doing so for many more. Keep it clean by wiping with a damp cloth after every meal. Use soap and water for washing the outside, never an abrasive. Clean the oven and broiler with a scouring powder. Try to avoid spilling on the hot surfaces for it may crack the enamel. If you have a gas range, see that all burners have a clear, blue flame; a yellow one means you're wasting fuel. After your food has reached the boiling point, reduce the gas just so it will maintain a cookinb temperature. If you use an electric stove, operate the units on high only to start cooking, then lower the heat. Save electricity too by turning off the current to finish cooking with the heat stored in the unit.

Waste Not, Want Not.

Your electrical appliances will be trusty servants for years if you give them proper consideration. Here are a few pointers to keep in mind: Never immerse the heating unit of any electric cooking appliance. Don't allow crumbs to remain on the coils of your toaster. Follow the manufacturer's directions for oiling the motor of your electric mixer, and don't overwork it by putting too much or too stiff a mixture in the bowl.

Every care you use to avoid waste in your kitchen means that much more ammunition and power for U. S. A. and for you, waste not, want not.



YOUR KITCHEN GOES TO WAR. Here are some of the things you can't replace for the duration, so guard them well: 1—Electric refrigerator. 2—Metal cabinet tops. 3—Electric roaster. 4—Chromium trim. 5—Metal sink. 6—Electric dishwasher. 7—Electric toaster. 8—Steel cabinets. 9—Electric range.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

The old professor's question wrenched me back violently from the furtive study I was making of the queer-looking man who was attending him.

"It will take several minutes tell you that," I told him, "and will involve your study of a queer document. Are you sure you are strong enough just now to go through with it?"

"I'm—all—right," the old man said valiantly, his voice still thick and hoarse because of his swollen tongue caused by brutal gagging at the hands of the gangsters. Then he looked up at the younger man bending over him.

"What do you think, Charles?" he asked. "It's all right for me to talk, isn't it?"

"Charles" a Confidant.

"It's all right for you to listen," he said at last, "but don't do any more talking for a while than you have to."

I leaned nearer the old man and lowered my voice.

"I wish to talk to you about Jack Bickett," I said. "I have queer news concerning him, and I'm afraid he is in danger. Do you wish me to speak to you alone, or is this gentleman a confidant of yours?"

"You may speak freely before him," the old man replied promptly. "And he knows something of Bickett, although not much. But what news have you?"

I bent forward again and in swift, clipped sentences told the two men with me of the disappearance of Marion Morton, and of our belief that part of the mystery concerning her was involved in the gangsters' hunt for some clue to Jack Bickett's whereabouts.

Then I told them about Stephen Redfield questioning me concerning Jack, and finally about the sheet of cryptic characters which I was sure were penned by Jack, and which Mary Veritzen had so cleverly filched from Stephen Redfield without his knowledge.

The eyes of old Professor Diswell were filled with feverish interest as I talked.

But Professor Diswell was canny, as I remembered him to be. When I had finished, he put a direct question without volunteering any information concerning Jack.

"Did you bring that paper with you?"

"Yes, it is here in my bag," I told him.

"Were you able to read it?" he asked quickly, and gave a little sigh of relief at my answer, which sent my hopes of getting news of Jack skittering downward.

"No, I couldn't make it out at all," I told him. Then with another backward glance at the men on the front seat, who still were facing front, I took the page of cryptic characters from my bag and put it into the thin fingers of the old professor. He seized it avidly, and swiftly ran his eyes over it.

But the behavior of "Charles," as Professor Diswell had called him, intrigued me more than that of the old savant himself. When I rummaged in my purse for the paper I took the opportunity to glance at him sidewise from under my lashes, and saw that his fingers were clenched into his palms. And when I put the paper into the clutching fingers of Professor Diswell, "Charles" made a quick, involuntary motion of his hand toward it, then drew it back again and sat immobile while the old man went over it.

Of one thing I was made sure by the behavior of the two men. Both of them knew what I wanted to find out concerning Jack Bickett. But would they share their knowledge with me?

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

BID IT YOURSELF.

WHENEVER you know there is a game in the hand for your side, even if your partner has the weakest possible hand which could have justified some action he had already taken, your job is either to bid that game or make a positively forcing bid which will enable him to bid further on the strength you have shown, without requiring any more himself. Making a minimum bid in such a spot, and hoping he will have enough more to bid again, is likely to throw away the game.

South nearly dropped dead when his partner passed and left him in 2-Spades. As he recled off every trick after losing the opener to the club Q, he keenly regretted his minimum raise from 1-Spade to 2-Spades. He should have realized that it was a virtual impossibility for his partner to have material for another voluntary bid in his hand, in view of the fact that East

	♠ A J 7 4 ♥ K 9 5 ♦ 9 5 3 ♣ 8 4 3
♠ 6 ♥ 10 8 7 6 4 3 ♦ 10 8 4 ♣ Q 9 5	N W E S	♠ 9 3 ♥ 2 ♦ K 7 6 2 ♣ A K J 10 7 2
	♠ K Q 10 8 5 2 ♥ A Q J ♦ A Q J ♣ 6

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 ♣	Dbl	1 ♥
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠

had shown enough for an opening bid.

This deal was played at eight other duplicate tables, and in all of those cases South reached 6-Spades by one means or another. In two of those cases, the early bidding was the same. After South's double of 1-Club, West made the same weakness call of 1-Heart, and North voluntarily bid 1-Spade. With only two aces and two kings missing, it was a virtual certainty that North had one of those aces and one of those kings, and consequently South bid 6-Spades. In one case, South bid a Blackwood 4-No Trumps, and North showed one ace with 5-Diamonds, whereupon South bid the small slam.

Tomorrow's Problem.

	♠ K Q 10 9 ♥ K J ♦ J 10 7 5 ♣ Q 8 3
♠ 5 3 ♥ 9 8 6 2 ♦ 4 2 ♣ K 9 5 4 2	N W E S	♠ A J 8 7 2 ♥ 4 3 ♦ Q 8 ♣ A J 10 6
	♠ 6 4 ♥ A Q 10 7 5 ♦ A K 9 6 3 ♣ 7

(Dealer: North Both sides vulnerable.)

After East starts this deal with 1-Spade, what action should be taken by the other side?

Give Your Hair More Care

By MME. QUI VIVE

Considering the delicacy of a single shaft of hair, it is surprising how strong it is, how long it hangs onto life, sometimes for a period of six or seven years. Yea, even though it is never caressed by a brush or given much attention. It is composed of three layers, the outer one or cuticle, the middle one, which is called the cortex, and the inner structure which is the medula or marrow channel.

The cuticle is a mass of tiny overlapping cells, like the scales of a fish. It emerges from the papilla in which the hair roots live, gets its food from the blood streams. The cortex is a perfect oiling machine; without it the hair would be dry and brittle, would break at the touch of the comb. It gives luster and elasticity to the hair. Peroxide absorbs this only substance, and the hair takes on the quality of jute. Pretty terrible, as all those whom have overindulged in the contents of the peroxide bottle have found out to their sorrow.

In the medula is the coloring pigment. A shaft might be compared to a glass tube, getting its coloring from its content. When the pigment disappears, as happens in advancing years or even before, the hair is white. It has been said that certain vitamins will restore the coloring matter; about that we can make no definite statement.

When the hair falls there is, of course, a definite physical reason. Medical men who specialize in diseases of the skin and scalp confess that it is difficult to put the professional finger on the cause. After a severe fever nearly the whole thatch may moult away. But soon a soft downy growth appears, grows rapidly. Worry, sleeplessness and emotional storms may so effect nutrition that the silky threads may become thin.

As the hair lives on the blood streams, brisk massage of the scalp is recommended. If more women and men mauled their scalps for five minutes each day there would be less weeping about falling hair and bald spots.

Cleanliness of the scalp and brushing the hair contribute toward the well being of human wool. The head that is shampooed once a week is usually free of skin scales. To stimulate the blood streams during this renovating session, rub the flesh briskly and brush the hair well before applying soap suds. Use water as hot as you can bear it comfortably, finish with a cold spraying. The sudden change in the temperature of the water will make the scalp glow.

AUXILIARY MEETS.

Auxiliary 100 to the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War will hold a meeting at Memorial hall Wednesday evening.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

Once upon a time there were 500 ostriches, and they were invited to a party on the beach. And only 499 showed up.

Now these 499 were very embarrassed because the other ONE did not show up, so they each and every one stuck their heads in the sand.

And so the other ONE came along, and he looked all around and he said:

"Where is everybody?"

This is one of Ken Woodman's stories, and Ken is a very nice boy in betweentimes, but he is addicted to telling stories like this, and another one he tells goes something like this:

Once upon a time a guy goes down to the Union station to meet a friend coming in on a train and the friend gets off this train and his face is a very greenish hue and the guy says to his friend:

"What is the matter with you? You appear to be very ill."

And the friend says: "Yes, I always get ill when I ride backward on a train." And the guy says: "Why didn't you ask the fellow across the way to trade seats with you?"

And the friend says: "I thought about that, but there wasn't anybody over there."

* * *

Now this is the sort of thing you run into when you make a living by writing pieces for the paper and other characters make a living by writing pieces for the paper, and you come into contact with such persons in the way of your daily work. And you can't help it. And that is that, or almost that anyhow.

And so long as you or I can't help it, I am minded to spring that old staley about Riley the strong man on Mr. Woodman.

Once upon a time in a far country there lived a guy who is known far and wide as Riley the strong man and every year into this far country there come tourists and travelers and one thing and another looking up this famous Riley the strong man, and one year, believe it or not, there comes such a tourist to this far country doing just that.

And this tourist gets off of this here tram and he looks all about and what doesn't he don't see but Riley the strong man?

So this tourist accosts a bystander standing by a post which upholds a street light, and he says:

"Hey, are you Riley the strong man?"

And the bystander he yawns a somewhat prodigious yawn, and he gapes and he gaps and he says: "No, I am not Riley the strong man." And he gives a brief tug and he picks up the lamp post and he points and he says: "You go up the hill and down the hill and up the valley and there you will find a little white house and there you will find Riley the strong man."

So the guy goes up the hill and down the hill and there he sees a little white house, but he does not see Riley the strong man, but over in a field he sees a guy plowing along with just a plow in his hand and no horses or things or stuff and he goes over and he interrogates this plowman and he says:

"Say, are you Riley the strong man?" and the plowman says no and he picks up the plow and he points and he says: "You go up the hill and down the hill and up the valley and there you will find a little white house and there you will find Riley the strong man." So the traveler goes up the hill and down the hill and up the valley and he finds a little white house but he does not find Riley the strong man.

And there is no one standing about so what does this traveler do but walk straight up to this little white house and he knocks on the door: "Knock, knock, knock."

And a deep bass voice says: "Come in."

So the traveler goes in and he finds Riley the strong man, and what do you suppose Riley the strong man was doing?

* * *

He was sitting on his fist in the middle of the floor and leaning back on his thumb and in that position he had lifted himself two feet off the floor and if you do not think this is a tough trick just try it some time.

Baseball Set for Openers

Mortality Rate For Grandmothers Rises.

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR.

NEW YORK —(AP)— This is the day that business men neglect their business and office boys beg off for grandmother's funeral. It's Major League baseball's opening day.

Unless the weather intervenes, all 16 teams will move off together this afternoon, with something like 200,000 fans in the stands.

Facing their first wartime season since 1918, the 67th annual National League campaign and the 42nd for the American circuit open in the most unusual setting in the history of baseball.

The war failed to interfere with the country's national sport because President Roosevelt bade the game go on.

Air raid precautions will be observed day and night at most of the Major League parks. Signs and arrows will tell the fans which way to go to be safe from bombardment.

The 1941 champions of both the leagues open on foreign fields. The New York Yankees start against the Washington Senators in the nation's capital.

The Brooklyn Dodgers begin the defense of their National League title against their blood enemies, the Giants, at New York's Polo Grounds.

While the Senators waded through the Grapefruit League as if they owned it, they'll be gunning for the pennant with a made-over line-up that contains more question marks than a quiz program.

At Chicago, the White Sox start unwrapping their pitching finery against the St. Louis Browns, who offer a well-balanced club in spite of numerous losses to the armed forces, all by way of enlistment.

Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics, tagged for a repeat performance in the cellar, are at Boston to open against a Red Sox team that finished second last year and could do it again if the pitchers come through.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, bolstered by the addition of such players as Arky Vaughan, Augie Galan and Johnny Rizzo to their pennant stars of 1941 begin their bid against a New York Giants crew that has spiked up with Johnny Mize, Bill Werber, Hank Leiber and a host of promising rookies.

The St. Louis Cardinals, who are being picked by most of the experts to dethrone the defending champs, open at home against the Chicago Cubs, a jigsaw puzzle that might be a winner if all the pieces could be made to fit.

* * *

At Philadelphia, the Phils and the Boston Braves begin a battle that is expected to last all season and land the two of them in the bottom positions in the standings.

SNEAD VOLUNTEERS FOR ARMY SERVICE

HOT SPRINGS, Va.—(U.P.)—Sam Snead, one of the hardest hitters and second highest money winner in the winter golf circuit, has volunteered for both the army and navy physical training departments, his local draft board said today. If not accepted, Snead probably will be drafted in May.

Officials quoted Snead as saying, "I'm perfectly willing to drive a tank, but I feel that I am better qualified in athletic branches of the service."

Madison Gridders Defeat Galion

Madison high school gridders today owned a 6-0 victory over Galion in a practice scrimmage staged yesterday afternoon. During the first half of the session the two teams took turns advancing the ball from the 30-yard line, and Madison chalked up several touchdowns during that part of the scrimmage.

* * *

The latter half of the session saw the teams tangling in regulation play, and Madison pushed over the marker that gave the Rams their six-point victory.

* * *

Originally the two schools were booked for two games this week, but the second has been called off because of transportation difficulties.

FRANKIE PYTLAK

Regular catcher of the Boston Red Sox, Frankie Pytlak, above, has quit the team to enlist in the navy. Pytlak, who broke into pro baseball with Buffalo in 1928, hopes to serve as a physical instructor. He had been classified in 1-A by his draft board.

Bagby Named Tribe Twirler

Jeff Heath Has Boils But Expects to Start Game.

DETROIT—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians, with the youngest manager ever to start a major league season, and with two newcomers to their regular lineup, meet today the team to which they lost the pennant race of 1940 and with which they tied for fourth last year.

Against the Detroit Tigers and Big Al Benton, 24-year-old Manager-Shortstop Lou Boudreau sent Jim Bagby to the mound. Some 35,000 fans were expected.

Boudreau had to keep his eye on a young rookie, Fabian Gaffke, as a possible replacement for Jeff Heath, the Tribe's chief slugging threat, who developed a couple of incipient boils yesterday. Heath, however, claimed he would "be in there if I had 20 boils."

The new regulars are both up from Nashville of the Southern association—Cris L. Hockett in right field and Les Fleming at the first base position vacated by Hal Trosky.

Fleming used to belong to the Tigers, but was released to Buffalo, which traded him to Nashville.

Hockett, short, sturdy individual, hit .359 in the Southern association last year. He started out with Dayton, tried to make the grade with the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1938 and then went to Nashville.

The probable lineups:

Galion Team To Join New League

GALION—Plans are now under way for a Galion baseball team to be part of the new Ohio State league, which is being organized to supplant the former Class D circuit. It will be necessary for the Junior Chamber of Commerce to approve such a city team.

* * *

Lowell Flowers, chairman of the sports committee of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and Delnore Goldsmith attended the first meeting of the new league at Tiffin Sunday afternoon. It was decided there that the teams represented will play games on Wednesday evenings and Sunday afternoon.

* * *

Lowell Flowers was elected vice-president of the league. Other teams participating will be Tiffin, Fostoria, Fremont and Findlay.

GIRLS PRACTICE

Mansfield's state champion girls' softball team, the Provident Loans, will hold their first practice session tomorrow night at 7:30 at the Salvation Army. All girls wishing to try out for the team should attend this session.

Lose Tourney By Single Pin

Mansfield Edged in OPS Bowling By Elyria.

Nosing out Mansfield by a single pin, the Elyria A team captured the Ohio Public Service Company bowling championship for the second year in a row and marched away with top honors in the Kennedy Kegler Klassic when it ran up a score of 2553 at Playhouse Square Alleys, Cleveland, on April 11.

Led by John Neilson's high game of 215, the team members crashed through with such scores as 193 tallies by both Ernie Cheetham and Chuck Redman, 192 and 181 games by Hal Pence, and a 178 chalk-up by Ted Struck.

The Mansfield five battled valiantly with uniformly high averages only to have a tie for victory slip away when they missed by one pin Other A team standings were Warren, 3rd, 2520; Port Clinton, 4th, 2518; Lorain, 5th, 2505; Alliance, 6th, 2496; Sandusky, 7th, 2470; Massillon, 8th, 2431, and, Cleveland, 9th, 2412. Ashland found itself at the bottom of the heap with a weak 2194, and took home the Cellar Champ Trophy.

A fighting quintet from Warren won the B team championship with 2420, and dropped last year's Elyria champs to third place. Lorain came in second with 2339. Other team standings were as follows: Elyria, 3rd, 2329; Alliance, 4th, 2262; Ashland, 5th, 2230; Sandusky, 6th, 2194; Massillon, 7th. 2178; Cleveland, 8th, 2176; Port Clinton, 9th, 2030, and Mansfield, last, with 1975.

At the banquet following the contest, prizes were awarded to winners by OPS President T. O. Kennedy. To members of the winning A team went cash awards and gold collar and tie clips engraved with OPS initials and the figure of a bowler. The B team champs received cash awards and comic plaques carrying the "Bowler's Prayer," which read, "Oh, Lord, before I die, let me bowl a score so high, that, even I, when telling of it afterward may never need to lie."

E. A. Ladd, Cleveland, took top prize money for his individual three-game series of 579, while Paul Varley, Alliance, stood a good second with 568. Varley also pounded the maples for the individual high single game with 242. Orville Payne with a 220 game, took second prize edging out Grant Copeland, Lorain, 219. Other keglers scoring 200 or over in the A contest were Ladd, Cleveland, 216; Wolfor, Alliance, 200; Hartman, Warren, 208; Lewis, Lorain, 211; G. Young, Port Clinton, 201, and Kracker, Massillon, 211.

Bill Lowther, Warren, not only took first prize money for his 527 three game score in the B tournament, but anchored second prize for his individual game score of 201. Sylvester Rothgery, Elyria, was second in the individual three game race with 524 while Tom Hollingsworth, Port Clinton, had high single game with a 212. Culberson and Anderson, both of Alliance, with even double centuries each, chalked up the only other 200 games in the B series.

Genial host and chairman at the banquet was M. W. Thernes, OPS secretary and treasurer, and Cleveland B team bowler, who welcomed the teams to the tourney and kept the program of singing, music, and films moving at a fast pace.

Rolls 299 In ABC Tourney

No. 2 Pin Stands Up, Spoils Perfect Game.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — On hands and knees, two American Bowling Congress experts crawled over a pair of tournament alleys today—all because slim Joe Heinrich of Chicago tallied a 299 score in his singles finale.

The 48-year-old beer salesman came within a single pin of a perfect 300 game. After 11 strikes Heinrich was foiled by the No. 2 pin.

So, to comply with ABC requirements, John Hilbert and Al Matzelle of the ABC alley certification corps measured and checked the drives, to qualify Heinrich for his prospective high count award. The next highest individual game score in the 1942 tournament to date is 297, rolled by Henry Wollenberg of Davenport, Ia., Sunday.

Heinrich, whose league average is 185, compiled a 704 for his singles total, well below the leaders.

Bucky Walters Hurls For Reds

Cincy Tries For Second Opening Win in Decade.

CINCINNATI —(AP)— The Cincinnati Reds try today for their second opening-day victory in a decade with Bucky Walters hurling the initial lidlifter of his long major-league career against Albert Maxwell Butcher, the Pittsburgh Pirates' giant right-hander.

A crown approaching last year's record throng, which lacked just three score of 35,000 was expected.

Gov. John W. Bricker, who caught the pitching of George Trautman, American association prexy, during their Ohio State university days, will fling out the ball. Manager Bill McKechnie will accept two $25 war bonds from the Findlay Market association for award to the first Redleg to score and the batter who drives him home.

Crosley Field is a little spongy, but in unusually good condition.

Walters, who won four and lost three against Pittsburgh last season, hasn't been too steady in exhibition appearnces.

Bucky will have a formidable antagonist in Butcher whose curve balls beat the Reds four times in six starts last year.

The Pirates whipped the Redlegs in six of the seven openers the two have played in the last 20 years. Through most of last season they were in a nip-and-tuck battle with the Reds for third place.

Speedy Lee Handley has an injured shoulder and has yielded third base to outfielder Bob Elliott; while Rookie Johnny Barrett from Hollywood is stationed in right field for the Pittsburghers.

Of the Red Leg line-up, interest will center in newcomers Rollie Hemsley, catcher, a former Redleg acquired from Cleveland; outfielder Gerald Walker, bought from Cleveland to batter the short left field was as clean-up hitter; and Bert Haas, the lone starting rookie.

ARMY INDUCTION FACED BY REISER

NEW YORK —(U.P.)—Outfielder Pete Reiser, last year's National league batting champion, today faced induction into the army "probably within a month" and the Brooklyn Dodgers' chances of repeating last year's pennant victory sank accordingly.

The 23-year-old Reiser, set to begin his second full year in the majors, was originally classified in 3-A but after Pearl Harbor his case was "picked up again" and he was put into the highest bracket.

Byron Nelson Wins Tourney

Defeats Ben Hogan In Augusta Tie Playoff.

AUGUSTA, Ga. —(AP)— Byron Nelson, called by such an authority as Tommy Armour the "greatest golfer I ever saw," sported his second masters' championship today as the winter tour came to an official end.

* * *

The slim sharpshooter gathered himself together after taking a nerve-shattering six on the first hole to shoot a great 69 and defeat his old Fort Worth friend, Ben Hogan, by a single stroke in yesterday's play-off for what probably will be the last masters' tournament until after the war.

* * *

The play-off between these two iron-nerved competitors was a corker. They are among the best shotmakers in the world today, and their private duel for the masters' was worthy of their abilities. In the end it was Hogan, the fabulous little money winner, who was forced to bow. He has not won a major championship.

NARROW TRAIL CONTINUED BY STOCK MARKET

Exchange President Declares American Financial System Equal to Debt Burden.

NEW YORK—Stocks continued Monday's narrow and uneven price movements in today's early dealings.

Fractionally higher at a quiet opening were Douglas Aircraft, American Airlines, Bethlehem Steel, United Aircraft and Boeing.

Financial and banking circles displayed keen interest in the remarks of Emil Schram, president of the New York Stock Exchange, in regard to public finances.

Speaking at a brokers' meeting at Nashville, Tenn., Monday night, the stock exchange executive said the national debt may eventually reach $200,000,000,000 but "the American system is quite equal to any burden which it may have to carry."

Also attracting attention was Schram's expression of confidence the structure and functions of capitalism would survive the war.

Fail in Attempts to Keep Laval Out of High Office In France.

have come to naught. It does not mean that the French people have in the smallest degree relinquished their traditional affection for us.

What can we expect in the future? Simply stated, the least that we can expect is that German influence will be spread over the unoccupied zone in France.

Laval and Admiral Jean Darlan will get more of their orders from Berlin.

German guards at harbors and airports in unoccupied France, specified in the armistice agreement, will be reinforced.

German control over the movements of the French battle fleet, also specified in the armistice articles, will grow stronger.

German economists will block trade with any countries which are not in line with the Axis, and scour the markets for what is needed to offset Germany's own shortages.

German industrialists, pressed for manpower, will find new employment sources to augment the 100,000 French workmen already laboring—in German war and civilian factories.

German censors and propagandists will dictate, as they do in Paris and the occupied zone, what and how much the French people should be told.

The Surete Nationale will attempt to halt, more urgently than ever, recruiting for the Free French forces and espionage by the hundreds of British agents in unoccupied France.

Unoccupied France will become a German-administered territory.

There's only one ray of hope in the whole situation. That's the much-talked-about British-American invasion of western Europe.

And when it comes, I predict all of us will be happily surprised at the help, friendship and cooperation we will receive from still-freedom-minded although temporarily subjugated Frenchmen.
